No victims listed.Officer was again called to RP-Judith Stocks residence in regards to loud music. Upon arriving I first spoke with the Office in regards to this. They`ve requested reports be done to document the unfounded problems, as they are letting her out of her lease due to the problems.I then went to Stock"s apartment. As I walked up I could hear no loud noise from any apartments. Stock let me into her apartment and told me how deafening the noise was from the apartment above her. I could hear nothing. She took me back to her bedroom and opened the door. There was no noise. Stock said it had been turned down. Stock told me that she is moving in six days. I told her that was good and hopefully she won`t have any more problems. She wanted to know what could still be done because she was going to have to go to the hospital if the noise continues, that it`s driving her crazy. I asked what I could do since there is no evidence of this happening, that I have spoke with multiple neighbors who have said there is no problem with noise. Stock got angry with me and as I walked toward the door to leave she slammed it behind me after saying "it`s a good thing I don`t have a gun!". |  | WILSON, M. R.    |

Walters told officers that she found a wash cloth jammed inside of the door where the lock is located when she arrived home. Walters also found a hammer inside of the residence that did not belong to her located on the living room floor near the east wall behind her couch. The door appeared to have been kicked, but it was still locked and shut when Walters arrived home. The front window was forced open when Walters arrived home, and she believes this was the only possible way they could have gotten inside of the residence. Officers gave Walters a case number, was asked to stay at another location for the night for her safety, and to call if she found anything else missing from the residence.   |   | MERRISS, T. Reported: 01/10/2018. On approximately 2025 on January 10th, 2018, officers Meeks and Doane were sitting on a police controlled perimeter when they were approached by a woman (the suspect) wanting to travel down the street that was under police control. Based off training and experience, officers smelled the scent of burnt marijuana emitting off of the suspect`s clothing. Officers Eagleson and Hollins arrived to see if officers Meeks and Doane needed assistance. Officers Meeks and Doane returned to perimeter duty, while officers Eagleson and Hollins spoke to the suspect. Officer Hollins smelled the scent of burnt marijuana on the suspect, and placed her into custody. Officer Hollins searched the suspect. During the search, the suspect openly admitted that she had smoked marijuana three hours previously and that she had some in her car. Officer Eagleson searched the suspect`s car and found 2 grams of green leafy substance and a grinder in a space below the radio. From officers training and experience, we knew the substance to be marijuana and the grinder used to inject narcotics. Officer Eagleson seized the marijuana and paraphernalia and secured it into evidence. Officer Eagleson wrote the suspect a misdemeanor citation and released her . |   | EAGLESON, R. C. |

| Criminal Mischief [bm]     | Witness observed a small dark colored compact car ram the metal gate to get inside the condominium parking lot. A short time later, the same car then rammed the exit gate as it was leaving the parking lot. The bottom front entrance metal gate was bent in an arching manner. A post cap was also lying on the ground after falling off. Due to the gate being sturdy, it didn`t appear as if there was much else cosmetic damage. The entrance gate was swaying back and forth to indicate the electronic locking mechanism wasn`t working. The exit gate would not shut either. |   |                  |
