Domestic [am]	Reported: 03/12/2018.  Officers were dispatched to the above listed address in reference to domestic violence. Upon arrival, I spoke with the victim, down the street from the address at the Marathon gas station, who said that her husband had hit her in the face and choked her neck. The victim said that she did kick him in the ribs. Officers were unable to see any signs of injury on the victim. The victim said she is married to the offender and said she was staying at his house over the weekend to try and fix their marriage. They both had an argument that allegedly became physical.  Officers went to 314 N ninth street to talk to the offender. While inside speaking to the offender we noticed a black mark on his upper rib area on his left side. The offender said that this sort of thing happens all the time and he did not hit her. He said she started "acting crazy" so he "bear hugged" her and pushed her out the door. Neither party wanted to pursue charges. The victim was given a case number regarding the incident and she walked on foot to her new apartment on St. Joseph avenue.
