Reported: 01/24/2014.  On 012214 the suspect (an employee) entered the store and went to the Dewalt section, looked around a while. He then went to the extension cord aisle, then went back to the Dewalt aisle. He then picked up the display reciprocating saw and put it on another shelf. He then removed the security tag from the saw and stomped on it to break it and disable it. He then walked off with the security tag which was not found. He then came back to the Dewalt aisle, picked up the saw and exited the store without paying for the saw. There was also another security tag inside the saw that the suspect did not remove. When he exited the store the alarm went off. He had concealed the saw inside his jacket. Suspect left the store. The reporter (manager) was notified of the incident. The suspect was called by the office manager later and was asked to come to the store but was not told why. The suspect texted the reporter and said that he was not coming back to the store because they were setting him up even though they never told the suspect why they wanted him to come to the store. The girlfriend (IO and also an employee of Rural King) on 0123 contacted the reporter when she came to work and told him that the suspect had placed the saw in her car and she did not want to get into trouble. The girlfriend was told to go out to the car and bring back in the saw, which she did. The saw cannot be sold as new since it had been stolen. RMS shows the suspect and IO live at the same address.
