Reported: 04/30/2014. Police went to 40 W. Columbia Apt. F in search of James Quarles who had an active felony PTR warrant. Quarles lied about who he was and ran from me the night before (14-08607), and I received information that he was staying at this apartment. I knocked on the door and Quarles opened it. As soon as he saw me, he began to close the door. I rushed my body at the door and tried to push it back open with my shoulder, but Quarles was able to get it shut and locked. I kicked the door several times, but it would not give. That's when I called for other officers to assist. Some officers went around back and observed the back window open. Quarles stuck his head out, but when he saw them, he retreated back into the apartment. While we waited for a K9, we tried to make contact with Quarles through the door. Once the K9 arrived, Quarles began yelling from inside the apartment. He stated he would come out if we kept the dog back. At that point, Quarles did exit the apartment and was taken into custody and transported to the VCCC.		HELM, J. E.
