	Three E.P.D. Officers in full uniform were at Circle K at 7 N. Fulton Ave. Justin Hyde entered the store front area as an Officer graciously held the door open for him as he entered. Hyde quickly left the store without paying for any merchandise. A witness in the store and the store clerk both alerted Officers that Hyde had taken candy without paying past all points of sale.
	Officers observed Hyde walking quickly north on Fulton Ave. Officers stopped Hyde just off the store property and Hyde complied. Hyde had a ButterFinger candy bar poking out of his pocket. Hyde was placed into handcuffs and read Miranda warning. Hyde intially stated he did not take anything but then recanted his story and stated he did take one Butterfinger without paying. Hyde stated he was hungry and made a bad decision. Hyde had no money in his pocket and had clearly made the decision to steal before walking into the store. Hyde indicated he followed through with his plan to steal even though Officers were less than 30 feet from him as he committed the crime. Hyde was cited and released. The reporter (store clerk) and store manager both wanted Hyde barred/banned from the store and Hyde was advised he would be charged with Trespass if he returned at anytime.
