The father told me that he had already had his first two weeks of visitation which began when the children`s school year ended. He delivered the children to his exwife on Friday evening at 6:00pm. He states their mother was to return them this evening at 6:00pm; however, earlier in the day she began to refuse to return them. The father showed me text messages between the two detailing the exwife stating the children weren`t being treated right, so she wasn`t going to return them this evening. The father`s text messages were adamant that their mother return them. The text messages ended approximately 6:00pm when the mother said she was on the way to Urgent Care because one of the children was ill. The text messages ended after that. The reporter stated he, or his parents (the children`s grandparents) would go to Urgent Care to check on the status and collect the children; however, he wished to report the incident.		BROWN, S.
