Reported: 08/10/2015.  J. Devine stated that he believes that his son has been coming in his home when he and his wife leave. His son lives right down the street so it would be easy for him to keep tabs on him. He stated that several neighbors have told him that his son comes to the house and goes is as soon as they leave the neighborhood. He stated he hasn't reported it before because it is his son and he thought that they could resolve the problem within the family. He stated that he believes he is using a key but is unsure how he is obtaining a key. He has changed the locks at least 5 times and does not provide his son with a key. Although only remotes were taken this time, he is afraid that it will escalate due to his son knowing about an inheritance that J. Devine had acquired when his mother died recently. His son seems to think that it should go to him, not J. Devine.  Devine asked for some tips in securing the home and I provided him with some options.		SEBORIS, S. N.
