Reported: 08/24/2015. On listed date, time and location, Officers were dispatched in reference to a theft report. However, Dispatch advised the people on scene were thought to be selling narcotics. Officers arrived on scene and the occupants of the residence immediately turned out all of the lighting. Officers walked towards the back of the residence to make sure no one would exit through the back door and observed someone`s head looking out of a side window. Officers returned to the front of the residence and shined a flashlight through a large front window. Officers observed a black male, later identified as Daniel Jermaine Perkins, hiding in a corner and a white female, later identified as an involved other, standing in the middle of the living room. I ordered both people to walk to the front door. Both exited the front door and Officers could smell the odor consistent with burnt marijuana coming from both Perkins and the female. During a pat down, Officers felt what was immediately recognizable as narcotics paraphernalia in Perkins` pant pockets. Perkins was handcuffed and was found to have a couple of misdemeanor warrants for narcotics. Officers asked if there was anyone else inside of the residence and were initially told no, but the female later advised her step-father, later identified as an involved other, was inside of the residence. Both the female and Officers ordered him to exit the residence, but he did not comply. The female stated his bedroom was off of the kitchen and that he was in there. After explaining why Officers were at the residence, Officers learned the caller had their money taken by a middle person whom was supposed to buy some narcotics from Perkins and the involved others. However, the middle man left out of the back door and kept the caller`s money. The caller was not on scene, but advised the occupants, Perkins and the involved others, were selling narcotics. Due to someone still being inside of the residence and the totality of the circumstances, Officers requested an additional unit to assist. Perkins and the female gave Officers permission to enter the residence to look for the other occupant. He was not initially located, but Officers saw his derriere sticking out from behind a television in his bedroom. He was advised to come out and show his hands, but he failed to comply. Officers used some chemical spray, oleoresin capsicum, to force the occupant to come out of hiding and show his hands. He was taken into custody and it was learned he had a warrant for his arrest. Officers read all of the occupants their Miranda Rights Warnings, which they stated they understood and wished to speak freely. They were also advised of their Pirtle Warnings before being asked to sign an EPD Consent to Search Form. They all consented verbally and in writing to allow Officers to search the residence. Officers located some smoking devices containing a burnt residue, which through training and experience identified as burnt marijuana, inside of the residence. Perkins had a prior conviction for possession of paraphernalia.	THIRY, K. D.

Officers explained why he was stopped and asked him his name. Officers also noticed a small gold colored metal box with electrical tape wrapped around it laying on the ground beside his bike. He said his name was Sean Daugherty. Officers found him to have a warrant and placed him in cuffs. Officers went back to were the box was on the ground and picked up the box. Officers asked him what was taped in the box and he said he didnt know. He said it was already laying on the ground. Officers explained to him that the grass was wet from dew and the box was dry.
