| With Deadly Weapon Or Bodily Injury | I was dispatched to 1321 N. Fulton Ave., The Right Stuff, in reference to a holdup that had just occurred. I arrived and spoke to the store clerk, Maninder Singh. Singh had very broken English and it was difficult to get detailed information. Detective Bow arrived and a short time later Crime Scene Detective Gentry arrived on scene. We were able to view the video surveillance system. The suspect, appeared to be a black male, early to mid-20s, 510-600 tall, 170-190 lbs., wearing a green dri-fit hoodie, khaki pants, and all black nike shoes with white soles. He entered the store around 0724 hours and stood near a cooler area by the counter until Singh finished business with a customer. While waiting, the suspect picked up a package of bologna from the cooler and was acting like he was looking at it. As soon as the customer exited the store the suspect went behind the counter and confronted Singh with what he described as a large kitchen knife. Singh said the suspect demanded money from the cash register. Singh said the suspect shoved the cash down the front of his pants and left the store and traveled eastbound down the alley on the north side of the store. | | |
