	The victim and the offender are boyfriend/ girlfriend. They also live together. The victim said that she was giving the offender a ride to his friends house. She said that they were in the area of Willow and Virginia Sts. She said that they were arguing over the fact that he had been caught cheating on her. The victim said that the offender became angry and started to choke her with both hands around her neck. She said that she could not breath and stopped the car. She said that when she stopped the car the offender got out of the car and started walking north from the location where he was choking her. She said that she drove in his direction and when she got close to him he punched the passenger side window of the car. She said that as she continued to drive away the offender pulled out a semi auto handgun and pointed it at her. She said that he made the statement "cmon bitch" as she drove away. She said that she called 911 and the offender was stopped by officers nearby. There were prints on the outside of the victims car on the passenger side window. The print looked like knuckle marks. There were no visible injuries to the victims neck.
