Meriweather explained to us that a female (offender) who allowed him to live at her place threatened him with a knife. He mentioned that the offender allowed him to live at her apartment as long as Meriweather gives her $100 a month to help cover apartment costs. On today's date, the offender found out that Meriweather gets paid more often than he previously let on when they made the original agreement of $100. We asked if Meriweather was in any kind of relationship with the offender, and he said that they occasionally have sex.	EAGLESON, R. C.

Case #	Description	(A)ttempted, (C)ompleted, (F)elony, (M)isdemeanor	Officer
LW 1808352	Crisis Intervention-immediate Detention	While inside of the apartment, the offender demanded that Meriweather give her more money for apartment costs, and he told her no. According to Meriweather, the offender got mad at this time and threatened her with a knife. The offender told Meriweather that she would cut him if he did not give her more money, and she would not let him leave. Meriweather informed me that he then calmed her down by saying he would get her the money at the Neighborhood Walmart (3430 Taylor Avenue). The two then walked over to the Neighborhood Walmart together. When the two arrived inside of the Neighborhood Walmart, Meriweather told the offender that he was not giving her more money. The offender got mad and punched Meriweather in the face underneath of his right eye. The offender then left the scene and Meriweather called the police. We did not observe any redness under Meriweather's eye, but he did complain of pain. Meriweather said that he came to the Walmart because he knew the store had cameras. Walmart security allowed us to look at the cameras.
