LW 1813738 Found Property	the car ride home by grabbing the victim by the throat and hitting her while she was driving. Upon arriving at the residence, the violence continued until he went into the house. As the victim entered the front door the offender jumped on her attacking her by throwing her to the ground and into the furniture. He grabbed her around the throat with both hands choking her to the point that she stated that she was going to die. She stated that he had a rage in his eyes and he was mumbling random sentences that didn't make any sense. The abuse continued into the bedroom where he drug her by the hair and closed the door. He would not let her leave and grabbed her ponytail throwing her onto the bed where he placed his fist in her throat again and then his elbow causing her to nearly lose consciousness. She stated again that she feared for her life. He bent her fingers backwards toward her wrist causing her nails to bend back. Her nails did have discoloration under the tips from this action. She also stated that he held her down on a chair and the end of the bed while he pushed and twisted in a grinding motion her surgical lacerations from a recent surgery that are still healing causing intentional excruciating pain to the victim. The victim was very emotional while describing this event and stated that she had no where else to turn because she doesn't know anybody here. I contacted Det Bill Braun and requested that he come out and take a statement. Crime Scene was called to photograph her injuries as well.
