VI was advised to get full name of OF and to call 911 when the OF comes back and tries to get into the apartment. Gonzalez, Eduardo Agustin (W M, 29) VICTIM of Theft From Motor Vehicle (C), at 101 Oakley St, Evansville, IN, between 23:00, 04/10/2019 and 07:00, 04/11/2019. Reported: 04/11/2019. I [SeDoris] was advised of a run holding in east sector on Rheinhardt Ave. Dispatch advised that the other half of this was callign in as well, wanting to get her truck from her husband. Officer A. Epmeier went and met with her. I contacted the caller, E. Gonzalez and he advised that his wife had violated the protective order he got against her. He advised that he had called officers out to Berry Plastics [his place of employment] last night to serve the protective order against his wife. An officer on third shift had advised her of the protective order and there were notes added to the run card per that officers request. Today, he left work around 0700 hundred hours and noticed that his truck had been ransacked. His lunch box and bag were gone, along with sunglasses. He attempted to review video of the incident but due to a police report not being filed yet, they would not allow him to review it. He advised his car was parked in the Mary St side parking lot, closest to the Lloyd Expy. He advised that she had to have gotten into the car, as she is the only one with the pass code on the door and he has the only key to the vehicle. He then went home and noticed that most of his wife`s belongings were gone. He advised she had to have gone over there to get them last night sometime. Officer A. Epmeier contacted me and advised that she spoke with the female. She stated that she and her husband have been going through some issues and she had just applied for a protective order against him as well, though he had not been served with it yet. She stated that earlier in the night last night, she sent her sister over to get belongings, as to avoid confrontation. She stated it was before 2300 hundred hours [prior to being served with the protective order]. She freely admitted to knowledge of the protective order. She did not admit to going into his truck last night or today.	SEDORIS, S. C.

She said the suspect was dropping her off for work, and told her to get here stuff out of the car. The stuff he was referring to was on the passenger seat floorboard, so the victim leaned into the car through the open passenger side door to get it. As she was doing this, the suspect accelerated abruptly which caused the passenger door to slam onto the victim, knocking her down to the pavement next to the car. The car then went forward and the victim's left arm went under the car's passenger side rear tire, causing the victim extreme pain. The suspect quickly turned the car around in the parking lot, and only stopped briefly to yell something at the victim as she laid on the ground. He then sped past her, and left the area on Washington Ave. The victim was able to get herself up, and went into BoRics to call 911. A witness was sitting in his car in the Taco Johns parking lot, facing West, and observed the entire incident. I spoke with him over the phone, and his account of what he saw matched that of the victim's. He said suspect's car "took off fast," and that the victim "hit the ground hard." The victim was transported to St. Vincent by AMR. Crime Scene responded to the hospital and took photos of her injuries. She stated she did not wish to press charges.	HELM, J. E.
