LW 1925426 Custody Dispute	I arrived on Keller and spoke to Kristina who stated her boyfriend had assaulted her. She stated the argument was over the male subjects mother not buying the youngest child dinner. She said when she found out the baby was left out of dinner she said "that's not right". She said after that statement, the male blew up and started screaming at her and got in her face. She said she tried to walk away and he grabbed her by the arm, spun her around and spit in her face. She then said the male slapped her across the right side of her face, leaving a red/blk mark around her eye. She said he then grabbed her around the throat and spit in her face again. After spitting in her face he then attempted to spit on her again but spit in K.R. face, while he was in her arms. The altercation led outside because she stated she was trying to get out of the apartment. While outside, she stated the male continued to push on her while holding K.R. She said she had called her grandmother while the altercation was occurring and grandma could hear the commotion through the phone. I asked Kristina where the other children were during the incident and she stated they were in the bedroom but could hear the everything that was taking place. She also said the next door neighbor's kids were inside the apartment during the altercation. Kristina and the male have three children in the home but only one between them. While getting the information for tonight's incident, she stated that on 11/14/19, the male subject had strangled her until she almost blacked out. She said while she was being choked he said "you will die tonight". I asked if she had contacted the authorities and she sad she was trying to make it work for the children. She said she told him that if he touched her like that again she would call the police. She was advised to follow up and file for a PO for the incidents. Kristina had redness, marks and bruises on her person.
