Reported: 04/16/2020. Officers were on regular patrol driving a marked police vehicle in full uniform. Officers were driving east bound on Franklin approaching the intersection of Franklin and Heidelberg. Officers observed an abandoned vehicle (Saturn) in the empty parking lot on the south east side of the street with people sleeping in it. Officers turned into the parking lot and parked their vehicle. Officers exited the vehicle and heard a female yell something they could not make out. Officers then observed the female bend over as if she was in pain sitting on a white wall. Officers asked what was wrong and the female mumbled something. The officers asked about the people in the vehicle and the female began to ignore the officers questions. The officers requested another car and had the other two subjects exit the vehicle. Other officers arrived shortly after, as one of the officers was in the process of getting the name of the female that was sitting on the white wall. The female began to get loud again asking why officers were bothering her. Officers told the female to be quite or she would go to jail for disorderly conduct. Officers asked the female her name and she was later identified by another officer on scene. The female continued to yell as she stated officers were harassing her. One officer went to reach for the female`s left arm to place her in handcuffs as her body tensed up. The female would not give officers her other arm and force was used to get the female in handcuffs. The female continued to actively pull away from officers while she was on the ground. Officers could smell the odor of alcohol coming from her breath and person. Officers attempted to sit her up as she continued to not follow commands. Officers later stood the female up and attempted to walk her to the wagon. The female planned her feet multiple times in attempt not to walk to the transport wagon. Once at the wagon, officers attempted to search her, but the female continued to pull away from officers. Officers struggled to get a good search on the female. The female would not step into the wagon, so she assisted into the wagon. During the		FAHSE, A. G.
