No victims listed. Officer was dispatched to a disorderly conduct at the Popeye's chicken lot at 2401 Menards Drive. IO Jamie Campbell told officer that she was in line at the Popeye's chicken. She states that the other IO, Steve Laughlin, had threatened her and hit her vehicle with his. Campbell told officer that Laughlin had gotten angry over the order of the line. She states that he had "revved his engine" and cussed at her. She states that he did not make any verbal threats against her but was acting aggressive toward her and the occupants of her vehicle. Campbell states that Laughlin then placed his vehicle right next to her vehicle and continued revving the engine. She states that she felt her vehicle get bumped. She states that she did not see where the truck hit her vehicle. She was initially unable to see any damage on her vehicle. She later pointed out a small scratch on the driver's side rear door. This scratch appeared to have a grey or black color. She stated that the scratch had to be from the other vehicle because the vehicle is "garage kept" and does not have scratches. IO Laughlin stated that he had gotten upset with Campbell cutting in front of him at the line. He states he did yell at her but did not threaten her. He was adamant that his vehicle never contacted Campbell's vehicle. His older electric blue Ford Ranger had various dents and scratches all over the vehicle. He stated that they were from previous accidents. Campbell later stated that she believed Laughlin was intoxicated because he was walking with a limp. Laughlin showed no signs of intoxication as officer spoke with him. An incident report was completed at Campbell's request. There were no witnesses that came forward.
