Holden, was working in EPD Records when a dispatched run came out at 634 E Florida St reference a custody dispute report. I contacted the reporter via TX. The reporter stated she has custody of and has adopted five of her son`s children. The reporter stated she, her husband, and the other grandmother all "adopted" the children. The reporter stated the other grandmother is only suppose to have visitation once a week at the parenting time center, which she is to set up and pay for. The reporter stated the other grandmother has not done this at all. The reporter stated the juvenile male, involved other, went over to his cousins house last night. The reporter stated another juvenile female was there and called for the other grandmother, whom she also has custody of, to come over to get her. When the other grandmother arrived she gave instructions that the involved other juvenile male was to come outside or she would come inside after him. The reporter wanted this incident documented because she was advised there is a no contact order in place for all five of the children from the other grandmother. Records specialist looked through dockets and could not find a "No contact" order. The only verbiage that could be found was about the other grandmother having visitation at the parenting center once a week. I advised the reporter to always keep paperwork on her with docket numbers/cause numbers so we could easily find and prove when orders are in place. I also advised her it may be a good idea to go ahead and file for a protective order for all five of the children as well, like she has done for herself and her husband. (She was advised this was not necessary, however we are unable to see any documents advising of a no contact order for the five children). I advised the reporter the charge could always be changed and added if there is in fact a no contact order in place that we could not locate at the time of this report. The reporter was given a case number and advised where to get a copy of this report.
