	Delaware and Tenth Ave. Officers made contact with the driver who identified herself. I asked the driver for her drivers license, proof of insurance and the registration for the vehicle. She handed me her drivers license but could not provide a registration or proof of insurance. When asked if she had insurance on the vehicle she told officers that she did not have any at this time. She was then asked to step out of the vehicle and was placed in handcuffs. Officers then informed the driver she was being stopped because her vehicle matched the description of a vehicle just involved in a hit and run. She stated that she was not from around here and is unfamiliar with the territory and she may have backed into another vehicle. The Honda Pilot had fresh damage on the rear drivers side bumper and white paint transfer. Photos were taken with my department issued body camera. The driver was then read her Miranda Rights in which she stated she fully understood and was willing to answer questions. While officers were questioning her about the incident she admitted that it was probably her who backed into the vehicle from the original hit and run. She stated that she was in town visiting her husband, and that she had just dropped him off. She was unable to provide proof of financial responsibility so the decision to tow the vehicle was made. While conducting an inventory of the vehicle incident to tow, officers located a clear pipe with burnt residue (commonly used to ingest narcotics) located in the passenger side door pocket. The pipe was collected and placed into evidence. Suspect was cited for leaving the scene of an accident, possession of paraphernalia, and operating without insurance.
