The reporter advised that the victim was not home, but wanted to make a police report regarding the vandalism of her vehicles. The reporter said that her vehicles have been parked on Read Street all day. I observed two vehicles: The first one was a tan Toyota Camry (IN license plate: NUA196) parked on the east side of the street facing north-bound. The other vehicle was a white Dodge Dakota (IN license plate: AIA417) parked on the west side of the street facing to the south. I observed the Toyota Camry`s right front tire had been punctured and was flat. It appeared that there was a small hole in the sidewall of the tire, as if someone used something small to puncture it with (such as a screwdriver) instead of a knife. I observed body damage on the rear left bumper of the Dodge Dakota. The reporter advised that she was unsure who would have damaged the vehicles. The victim arrived on scene and spoke with me as well. She advised that the vehicles were undamaged approximately an hour before the 911 call was made. She further advised that she broke up with her boyfriend (offender 1) within the last two weeks. The victim stated that the offender is known to vandalize property and believed that he and his son (offender 2) were most likely the culprits; however, she did not actually see them commit the crime. The victim said she does not have any problems with anyone else and mentioned that the breakup was not very amicable.
