Reported: 09/18/2021. Officers were dispatched to 2511 N Kentucky Avenue, apartment 13 in regard to a domestic violence incident in progress. Upon arriving, I met with the victim. The victim advised that she was at 1009 Stanley Avenue, apartment 6, with the offender prior to calling 911. She advised that she is very good friends with the offender and often refers to him as an extension of her own family. She advised that she has never been in any sort of romantic relationship with the offender. The victim said while she was visiting with the offender at his apartment on Stanley Avenue, they got into an argument. The offender physically grabbed onto the sides of the victim's arms, picked her up, and put her outside. The victim said that the offender put his hand on her throat but never advised that her breathing was constricted. The victim advised she wanted to press charges against the offender. I did not observe any physical evidence of injury on the victim. I told the victim I would go over to the Stanley Avenue address to speak with the offender. Officer Nutt and I arrived at 1009 Stanley Avenue and made contact with the offender. The offender advised that the victim was over visiting him at his apartment. The offender said that they got into an argument and he wanted her to leave. The offender said that the victim pointed a torch-lighter at him and threatened to beat him up. The offender said that he picked up the victim and placed her outside. When asked if he choked the victim, he denied the allegation. Since there were no injuries to the victim, a custodial arrest was not made. Officers have made multiple runs to 1009 Stanley Avenue, apartment 6. The offender is often causing problems with other people who he invites over and is sometimes violent. The offender mentioned that he has lived at the apartment for approximately three months after receiving permission to stay there by another tenant (but not the landlord); however, he said that he does not pay any rent or utilities. Both the victim and the offender were provided case numbers for their reference and were told to follow up with the Prosecutor's office.	EAGLESON, R. C.
