Once we arrived at the scene, I observed a silver color Chevy Tahoe crashed into a parked white color passenger car in front of the 1351 Ravenswood Ave. My partner and I observed the offender in the driver`s seat slumped over the wheel. The driver, the offender, had the vehicle in gear D, and he had his right foot left on the brake pedal. In the plain view, I was able to see an open 16oz beer can placed in the center console arm rest cup holder. After multiple attempts of knocking on the vehicle`s windows to wake the offender, the offender finally woke up and was extremely aggressive and irate towards us. I identified us to the offender as police multiple times and asked him to unlock the vehicle`s doors. The offender got to the point that he was swinging his arms around, and he grabbed the open can of beer, and aggressively threw it at me. Fortunately, the vehicles windows were fully closed and it shielded me from getting hit by the beer can. Later, we were able to get the offender out of the vehicle without any further incident. We had to grab hold of him and escorted him to the closest curb and set him down on the curb for his safety. The offender had very aggressive and abusive attitude towards everyone involved.
