Terry Comfortably Wins Evansville Mayor Race

NOVEMBER 2023
 EVANSVILLE — On election night Vanderburgh County Councilwoman Stephanie Terry was elected Evansville's next mayor by a comfortable margin. She defeated Natalie Rascher (R) and Michael Daugherty (L) by gathering 48.5% of the vote. Stephanie Terry made history by being elected as Evansville's first black female Mayor. She will replace current Mayor Lloyd Winnecke, who has been serving in that position since 2012. See Other Evansville Election Results On Page 7

Longtime Evansville Councilman Joe Kiefer Won't Seek Re-Election

Son Joe Kiefer II Announces 2024 County Council Candidacy

NOVEMBER 2023
 Joe Kiefer, the local business person, elected official, and volunteer has decided to not seek another term on the County Council. As the owner of Hahn Kiefer Real Estate Services and Next Home Hahn Kiefer Residential, Joe has decided to spend more time growing his business and to spend more time traveling with his wife, Jo Ann, and also more time with his nine grandchildren. Joe was first elected to the Evansville City Council in 1999 and served 2 terms, later, becoming a Vanderburgh County Commissioner and Vanderburgh County Councilman. Before being elected, he served as a board member of the Alcohol Beverage Commission. During his tenure, he served on numerous boards including, the Old Courthouse Foundation, where he led multiple renovation projects that led to leasing much of the vacant space. He currently donates his time as a commercial broker, at no cost to the county, and his leasing team to help maintain a high level of occupancy. Joe is also on the EVPL Board and serves on the Finance Committee at St. Benedict Cathedral. As an elected official, Joe was active in multiple road projects including improvements to the University Parkway, and North Green River Road expansion, and was always an advocate for I-69. During his time as an elected official, he is very proud that he has always had a great working relationship with both Republicans and Democrats to help the community move forward. He played a role in multiple capital projects, such as the Ford Center, the Old National Events Plaza, Swonder Ice Arena, and many other community projects. In the county, Joe is proud that he and his fellow elected officials have worked together to keep the tax rate low while still being able to fund pay raises to employees. Of course, along the way, Joe is very proud that his son, Joe II, desires to follow in his footsteps in serving the Evansville community. Joe Kiefer II plans to run for County Council in 2024 Joe Kiefer II, age 34, plans to run for the Vanderburgh County Council At-Large seat in 2024. CCO Honors Community Service Leaders At 2023 Luncheon

 The City-County Observer was excited to honor the following community leaders and volunteers who have been selected as our 2023 "Outstanding Community Service Award" winners. Over the years this event has become one of several must-attend events in this region and this year was no exception. The "COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD" winners for 2023 were: DANIELA VIDAL, the well-respected Chancellor of Ivy Tech-Evansville, the Honorable Vanderburgh County Superior Court Judge TOM MASSEY, and the well-respected SOUTHWESTERN INDIANA BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION COUNCIL. The annual "WOMAN OF THE YEAR" award winner for 2023 was none other than the well-respected community and political leader and volunteer CONNIE ROBINSON-BLAIR. The "MAN-OF THE YEAR" award winner was the extremely popular and award-winning TV Sportscaster and News Anchor MIKE BLAKE. This year's event Master of Ceremonies was the Memorial Baptist Church mega preacher and publisher of "Our Times" newspaper, Dr. Adrian Brooks. Steve Hammer and County Commissioner Ben Shoulders were Co-Chairpersons of this year's event. The keynote speaker for the event was the well-known and well-regarded CEO/PUBLISHER OF THE INDIANA CITIZEN NEWSPAPER, D. William Moreau, Jr. Some of the past City-County Observer "Outstanding Community Service Award" winners over the last fifteen (15) years were: Holly Dunn

Pendleton, Indiana Lieutenant Governor Suzanne Crouch, Dr. Dan Adams, Dr. Steve Becker, Attorney Ted Ziemer and his wife Clare, Attorney Joe Harrison Jr., Tracy Zeller, former Vanderburgh County Sheriff and US Congressman Brad Ellsworth, Attorney Charles L. Berger, retired Vanderburgh County Clerk and Treasurer Susan Kirk, Indiana State Senator Vaneta Becker, 4TH Ward City Councilman Alex Burton, and community volunteer Lisa Rhyand Vaughan, retired Vanderburgh County Superior Court Judge Richard G. D'Amour, Superior Court Judge Robert Pigman, Chief Superior Court Judge Les Shively. The First Annual Annual CCO "Person Of The Year" award winner was none other than Evansville Mayor Lloyd Winnecke. This year's awards luncheon was held at Bally-Evansville and was a total sell-out. See More Photos of the Community Service Award Luncheon On Page 4.

Mike Pence And A Dream Denied

NOVEMBER 2023

By John Krull

The former vice president to Donald Trump and onetime Indiana governor had little choice but to leave the race for the White House. His fundraising had dried up. His standing in the polls, even in those states where he campaigned hard, remained small, even diminutive.

There was a decent chance that Pence wouldn't even have qualified for the next Republican presidential debate, a fresh humiliation to be visited on a man who had known so many of them in his political career.

So, he quit.

That must have been hard.

He has wanted to be and worked to be president for so long—some sources say since high school, some say even before—that giving up after coming so close must have been painful.

I feel for him.

Even though Mike Pence and I disagree on many, many things, I always have liked the guy.

I know there are people reading this who think this isn't—or shouldn't be—possible. They believe that disagreements about politics or public policy make it impossible for people to like or respect each other.

That's not the way it works for me.

Never has been and, I hope, never will.

What I have liked about Mike Pence is his courtesy. He knows that I don't agree with him on a lot of issues—many of them big ones, several of great importance to him—but he's never been anything other than polite and respectful in our interactions.

When he raised a point of contention between us, he always did so in a way that made discussion possible. He could listen as well as talk.

He also had the capacity to admire those with whom he did not agree. I remember once moderating an event in which he talked following a speech by the late former U.S. Rep. Andy Jacobs, D-Indiana.

Pence devoted the opening of his own address to paying tribute to Jacobs' character and the contributions he had made to Indiana and the United States.

Pence didn't do that because he thought he could persuade some of Jacobs' supporters to vote for him. Pence was savvy enough to know that wouldn't happen.

He did it because he liked and admired Andy Jacobs—and wanted to say so publicly.

There were times as he climbed the political ladder that Pence seemed to lose touch with that side of himself. He seemed to forget that his inherent likability was his greatest asset.

Maybe that's because the time in which he rose to power became more and more partisan.

More and more bitter.

More and more angry.

This was particularly true on the right, which craved standard-bearers who find it easier to snarl than smile. Conservatives' hunger for—and devotion to—happy warriors seemed to die with Ronald Reagan.

That left Pence in a quandary. He is not by nature an angry man.

When he tried to be, he never could sell the idea that he was seething with barely contained resentments. He never could make either friends or foes believe his rage was something to fear.

Worse, his attempts to move in the conservative cauldron of constant grievance made him seem disingenuous and inauthentic in an age that attracted to screaming incompetence, so long as it was genuinely practiced.

Enter Donald Trump.

I doubt Pence ever realized that signing on as Trump's running mate doomed whatever chance he had of making it to the Oval Office himself. Pence cleansed and blessed Trump's bid with the religious right, which gave Trump the narrow margin needed to secure the presidency.

In doing so, Pence traded away his own base—evangelicals now prefer the philandering former president to the devout former vice president—without gaining any footing with Trump's followers.

Worse, Pence spent four years abasing himself doing it, supplicating before a man he had to have known was neither a good president nor a good man.

A guy who could recognize and appreciate, as Pence did, the integrity of Andy Jacobs also would know when that integrity wasn't present.

Now, after all the sacrifices, self-denial and self-discipline, Mike Pence's dream has come crashing down.

There are those who take glee in his failure.

I'm not among them.

I didn't want him to be president, but I can't take satisfaction from a decent guy's disappointment.

And he is a decent guy.

Indiana Grown Holiday Box Highlights Local Businesses

NOVEMBER 2023

INDIANAPOLIS – Today, Indiana Grown announced a new initiative to bring Indiana businesses from across the state together for a yearly holiday gift box. This box will showcase a variety of products from Indiana Grown members. Indiana Grown is a statewide initiative housed within the Indiana State Department of Agriculture to highlight local products and artisan goods.

"This holiday box is a fantastic way to promote Indiana's small businesses," said Lt. Gov. Suzanne Crouch, Indiana's Secretary of Agriculture and Rural Development. "I personally cannot wait to share this gift box and these wonderful items with my friends and family for the holidays."

Each box includes:

Hot Sauce – Linneweber's Sauce Company LLC – Vincennes,

IN

Indiana Honey – Bee Great Local – Churubusco, IN On-Ear Popcorn Kit – Groomsville Popcorn – Tipton, IN

Strawberry Jam – Fish Lake Organics – Goshen, IN

Alpaca Dryer Balls – Heritage Farm – Flora, IN

Hoosier National Soap – Indiana Soap Company – Greenfield, IN

"We are very excited to put Indiana products from across the state in front of Hoosiers and across the country," said Caroline Patrick, director of Indiana Grown. "Indiana Grown members strive to make the best products possible and we are excited to introduce them to you."

The 2023 Indiana Grown Holiday Box is limited to 170 boxes. Go to in.accessgov.com/indianagrown-store to place your order.

Indiana DCS Celebrates Families During Adoption Month

NOVEMBER 2023

INDIANAPOLIS – During the month of November, the Indiana Adoption Program, the Indiana Department of Child Services (DCS) and Firefly Children and Family Alliance work together to highlight stories of children who have found permanent, loving homes.

To celebrate National Adoption Month, these agencies work to spread the word about children waiting to find their forever families and share success stories of those who already have. This year, DCS will share photos and videos from adoption events around the state on Instagram, Twitter and YouTube.

"Children do best when they're placed in permanent homes where they're loved and supported," DCS Director Eric Miller said. "While child safety is our agency's top priority, making sure that children are achieving permanency in a timely manner is our second most important goal – not just in November, but all year long."

According to federal data, Indiana had the seventh-highest number of children adopted among all states in 2021, the most recent comparison available. This year, DCS has celebrated more than 1,300 adoptions, and that number will continue to rise throughout November. Across the state, many courthouses and DCS offices will hold special events during this month to celebrate and finalize newly formed families.

Currently, more than 200 Indiana children in DCS care are available for placement in an adoptive home. For more information about adoption and profiles of some of Indiana's waiting children, click here.

Bob And Judy Griffin Named 2023 Champions Of Youth First

NOVEMBER 2023

Bob and Judy received the Dr. William Wooten Champions of Youth First Award at the event, sponsored by German Americans. In addition to recognizing the Griffins, the organization celebrated its donors, school partners, and volunteers with approximately 300 guests in attendance. 2023 marks Youth First's 25th anniversary which was highlighted at the event as well.

Evansville Mayor Lloyd Winnecke proclaimed October 24, 2023, as "Bob and Judy Griffin, Champions of Youth First Day."

These role models in business and philanthropy inspire others to invest in children, families, and the future workforce by serving as advocates of Youth First's mission.

Bob and his business partners built Evansville-based Escalade, Inc. to become a leader in the manufacturing of sports equipment for archery, table tennis, billiards, and more. An Illinois native with degrees from Notre Dame and Northwestern Universities, Bob is also a strong supporter of local higher education institutions, the University of Southern Indiana, and the University of Evansville.

Judy is also devoted to serving others, especially children so that they reach their full potential no matter their circumstances. An Evansville native, Judy is a graduate of Mater Dei High School and Indiana University and holds a Master's degree in education from UE. In addition to teaching, she studied art and psychology, ran a popular Newburgh tearoom, and has served on several nonprofit Boards, including Youth First's.

Bob and Judy are the proud parents of four and grandparents of eleven.

Breakfast of Champions attendees enjoyed remarks from

Dan Hoefling, Youth First Board Chair-Elect and President, KOCH Finishing Systems; Very Rev. Alex Zenthoefer, Diocese of Evansville Vicar General; Lindsay Botsch, German American Market President; David Bower, President, USI Foundation; Kevin Hammett, President & CEO, Regency Properties; Sr. Anne Catherine Burleigh, O.P., Dominican Sisters of St. Cecilia Vicar General; Patrick Griffin, son and Vice President, Escalade, Inc., Lauren Kaiser, Youth First Board Chair and Chief Human Resource Officer, Tri-State Orthopaedics; Parri O. Black, Youth First President & CEO; Dr. William Wooten, Youth First Founder, as well as family and friends of the Griffins.

Winnecke Announced As Next CEO For E-REP

NOVEMBER 2023

The Evansville Regional Economic Partnership (E-REP) is pleased to announce the appointment of Lloyd Winnecke as its next Chief Executive Officer, succeeding Tara Barney, who is retiring in 2024. Winnecke's appointment was unanimously approved by the E-REP executive committee and is set to take effect in January 2024.

With a distinguished career in public service and a strong record of economic development, Winnecke is uniquely positioned to lead E-REP into the next era of economic growth and innovation. He brings a wealth of experience and a deep commitment to community development and the prosperity of the Evansville region.

"Lloyd's proven leadership and dedication to not only Evansville but the entire region makes him the ideal choice to carry on the unbelievable work of Tara and E-REP," said Curt Begle, chair of E-REP and president of Health, Hygiene, & Specialties at Berry Global. "As we look to the future, we are confident that Lloyd's expertise will build upon the high-value E-REP has created and will continue that trajectory."

Barney, who has served as the CEO of E-REP and its predecessor organization for nearly six years, led the strategic merger of six organizations now under the E-REP umbrella. Since serving as CEO, Barney has been awarded several prestigious leadership awards including the 2023

Women of Distinction by the Girl Scouts of Southwest Indiana and the 2021 Woman of Empowerment Award from the Junior League of Evansville. She has also been recognized as one of Indiana's top 250 most influential business leaders. She will continue to lead the organization until her retirement, ensuring a seamless transition of leadership.

"It has been an honor of a lifetime to lead the Evansville Regional Economic Partnership and work in an industry I love," said Barney. "Lloyd is the right leader to continue the important work of moving the Evansville region forward and has been part of implementing E-REP's strategic plan from its inception. He knows this work, and I am confident he will take E-REP and this region to the next level."

During his 12 years as mayor, Winnecke has been at the center of many collaborative projects that are improving the quality of life in Indiana's third-largest city. From the interchange at the Lloyd Expressway and U.S. 41 to the Deaconess Aquatic Center to the Kinney Family Penguins of Patagonia exhibit at Mesker Park Zoo, Lloyd has helped align public and private sector priorities for the betterment of the region.

"I am honored to have the opportunity to serve as the CEO of the Evansville Regional Economic Partnership. I look forward to working closely with the dedicated E-REP team and our community partners to further our mission of driving economic growth and prosperity for the Evansville region," Winnecke said. "Tara has set a high standard, and I am committed to building on her legacy and taking our region to new heights."

Winnecke grew up on the north-side of Evansville, attended Central High School and graduated from the University of Evansville with a degree in Communications. He spent 18 years in television news, 13 years in corporate communications at Fifth Third Bank and 12 years as mayor. He and his wife, Carol McClintock, are very active in the community and spend many, many nights attending benefits for non-profit organizations. They are huge cheerleaders for the community. Winnecke's first official day as E-REP CEO is January 8, 2024.

Barney announced her retirement in earlier this year and a search committee was formed to conduct a nationwide search. The search committee was led by Vice Chair Beth McFadin Higgins of McFadin Higgins and Folz, LLP, and Vice Chair Christine Keck, Vice President of National Government and Regulatory Affairs, American Water.

"We were impressed with the quality of candidates and interest in our region from across the country as far as Texas. It shows we are making a name for ourselves in the Evansville region and are excited to have found hometown talent that will continue to lead this work forward," said Begle.

About the Evansville Regional Economic Partnership
The Evansville Regional Economic Partnership (E-REP) leads economic development efforts for the Evansville, Indiana region and elevates the overall quality of life through transformational projects, planning, advocacy, and business engagement. Additionally, E-REP supports the attraction, startup, and growth of regional businesses.

last 2 terms. Joe II will be running as a Republican but prefers to be identified as someone who cares deeply about Vanderburgh County and the people and businesses who reside in our community. As a board member since 2015 of the Evansville Visitor & Convention Bureau, he has helped lead the convention bureau as its board president from 2019 – 2023. He also has volunteered at Memorial High School as a track and fitness coach for 6 years and has served several years as president of the Memorial Booster Club. In 2020 he was recognized in the Rotary Club's, 20 Under 40, leaders in the community.

Joe II, since graduating with his MBA from Bellarmine University in 2013, has worked in wealth management and currently manages/leads a local wealth services team. He is well-positioned to serve his community on the county's fiscal body. In addition to his Master's in Business Administration, he also has a Bachelor's in Economics.

Joe II is married to Emily and together they have 3 children. He is excited about the opportunity to run for County Council and to serve his community. It's a family tradition!

UE's Changemaker Campus Designation Renewed

NOVEMBER 2023

EVANSVILLE - The University of Evansville (UE) is proud to announce that it has been granted the renewal of its Changemaker Campus designation by Ashoka U, solidifying its position as one of the nation's leading institutions dedicated to fostering social innovation and community engagement. The renewal also marks UE's fifth consecutive year of being a Changemaker Campus.

Ashoka – rated one of the top five most impactful social good organizations by NGO Advisor – confers the Changemaker Campus designation to institutions worldwide that exhibit an exceptional commitment to promoting positive social change within their communities and beyond. The leading designation for social innovation in higher education, this achievement highlights the University of Evansville's unwavering dedication to empowering students, faculty, and staff to become active participants in addressing the world's most pressing challenges. UE remains Indiana's only Changemaker Campus and one of only a handful in the Midwest.

"It is a true honor to be part of an institution that places a priority on positive change the way UE does," said Erin Lewis, Executive Director of UE's Center for Innovation & Change. "This recognition by Ashoka U is a testament to the dedication and hard work of our entire community in fostering a culture of innovation, social impact, and positive change across all disciplines.

Our students, staff, and faculty drive meaningful transformations that address some of the most significant challenges of our time, and we're thrilled to continue being in the Ashoka network of colleges prioritizing that work."

Students need interdisciplinary, entrepreneurial, and solutions-oriented skillsets to succeed in today's complex world that is changing at an accelerating pace. "Changemakers at UE have made an impact addressing issues such as food and housing insecurity, environmental sustainability, and promoting equitable access to the arts – many of these projects have been pursued by students in our flagship program, Change Lab," said Lewis. "Whether they are tackling large projects like the Toyota Trinity Stormwater Park being built in downtown Evansville right now, providing pro-bono physical therapy to uninsured patients, or helping minority-owned businesses gain access to capital, UE's changemakers work hard to make the world better than they found it."

One notable illustration of UE's commitment to fostering positive change in the community is the receipt of $30 million federal grant to establish the Evansville Promise Neighborhood. With this designation, UE becomes the first institution in the world to host a Promise Neighborhood grant as an Ashoka Changemaker Campus.

Ashoka U noted that UE exhibits changemaking through its deep community engagement locally as well as its role in fostering social innovation in global issues and with global partners. One reviewer stated: "This university leads the way in communicating changemaking, and their community embeddedness is exemplary."

"Ashoka U is thrilled to have the University of Evansville continue serving as a global leader in change-making. UE has demonstrated exceptional dedication to equipping its students with the tools and mindset needed to address complex global challenges and drive meaningful impact," said Heather MacCleoud, PhD, Chief

Network Officer for Ashoka U. "Particularly through innovative programs like ChangeLab, I am confident that UE's students will continue to shape a brighter future for our increasingly complex world."

By earning this renewal, the University of Evansville remains in an elite group of fewer than 50 academic institutions around the world that are at the forefront of social innovation and creating a meaningful impact on a global scale. Other Changemaker Campuses include such distinguished institutions as Brown, Cornell, Tulane, Arizona State University, and Duke, to name a few. This recognition is a testament to the University's integration of social innovation and change-making principles throughout its core values and academic programs and to the community's willingness to engage with students and faculty to address challenges in our region.

"We are immensely proud to have our commitment to social innovation and community engagement recognized once again with the renewal of our Changemaker Campus designation," said University President Christopher M. Pietruszkiewicz. "Our students, faculty, and staff continue to make a positive difference in the world, and through the Evansville Promise Neighborhood, we will continue to provide a transformative educational experience that empowers our entire community to be agents of change. The University of Southern Indiana Theatre continues its 2023-24 season."

USI Awarded ICHE College Success Program Grant

NOVEMBER 2023

The University of Southern Indiana has been named an inaugural recipient of the Indiana Commission for Higher Education (ICHE) 2023 College Success Program grant. Announced by the ICHE on November 3, the first grant cycle funding is being used to create 32 full-time positions at 22 public or private four-year Indiana higher education institutions to support 21st Century Scholars, Frank O'Bannon Grant recipients, minority students and other low-income and first-generation students.

USI has been awarded $180,000 to fund two full-time

College Success Coaches. Coaches will be housed in the Pathways to College Program and will report to Dr. Brandi Neal, Director of Pathways to College Program. In their roles, coaches will assist in providing an immersive on-campus experience for first-generation college students, aimed at increasing matriculation to the institution. Coaches will also ensure the proportion of participants supported exceeds the state average of high school graduates who enroll in college.

"Today is First-Generation College Celebration Day, commemorating the signing of the Higher Education Act of 1965, which created federal financial aid and other programs that promoted access to higher education," says Dr. Shelly Blunt, Interim Provost. "This grant funding enables the University to provide essential wrap-around support services for our first-generation students."

Funding for the College Success Program grant is made possible under House Enrolled Act 1001-2023. The initial program will run from November 1, 2023, through October 31, 2024, with opportunities to extend the grant pending review of the State Budget Committee.

"Last year, the Commission launched its strategic priorities to address college enrollment, completion and graduate retention," said Indiana Commissioner for Higher Education Chris Lowery. "The College Success Program is one of our intentional strategic approaches to partnering with institutions to address the challenges in the education to workforce pipeline and amplify the impact of proven programs such as the 21st Century Scholarship and Frank O'Bannon Grant. This will remove barriers that especially affect first-generation and low-income students."

14 UE Students Selected For Prestigious Scholars Program

NOVEMBER 2023

EVANSVILLE - The University of Evansville (UE) proudly announces that fourteen of its students have been selected to join the prestigious Class of 2025 Indiana AHEC Scholars Program. This highly competitive program is part of a national initiative aimed at preparing the health care professionals of tomorrow to be leaders in interprofessional, transformative practice, dedicated to serving the underserved populations of Indiana.

The Indiana AHEC Scholars program is tailored to individuals with a resolute commitment to providing health care services in rural and medically underserved communities across the state of Indiana. These dedicated students will undergo a rigorous two-year program that combines didactic training opportunities with hands-on field experiences. These experiences are specially designed to focus on both rural and urban health care, with an emphasis on caring for underserved populations.

Throughout their journey in the Indiana AHEC Scholars program, these outstanding students will engage with and integrate eight core topics:

Behavioral Health Integration
Cultural Competency & Humility
Interprofessional Practice
Practice Transformation
Social Determinants of Health
Connecting Communities and Supporting Health Professionals
Virtual Learning and Telehealth
Current/Emerging Issues (Including topics such as COVID-19, the Opioid Epidemic, and Maternal-Child Health)

"UE extends our congratulations to the exceptional students comprising the new class of Indiana AHEC Scholars," said Dr. Andy Lampkins, Interim Dean of the College of Education and Health Sciences. "These students represent the future of health care and have demonstrated their unwavering dedication to making a positive impact in communities that need it most."

The Class of 2025 Indiana AHEC Scholars from the University of Evansville are as follows:

Katelyn Brown – Physician Assistant
Sydney Hirt – Physician Assistant
Aubrey Lankford – Physician Assistant

Heather Mathis – Nursing
Samantha Moore – Exercise Physiology
Hannah Myers – Physician Assistant

Chastity Reising – Physician Assistant
Natalie Schimp – Physician Assistant
Carlie Schultheis – Physician Assistant
Yanyu Wei – Physician Assistant
Erika Will – Physician Assistant
Kathryn Williams – Physical Therapy
Keri Zumbahlen – Physical Therapy

About the Indiana AHEC Network: Indiana AHEC Network's mission is to improve health by recruiting, educating and retaining health care professionals in underserved communities. We work to enhance access to quality health care, primary and preventive care, by improving the supply and distribution of health care professionals through community/academic educational partnerships.

Annual Madrigal Feaste Returns To USI Nov. 30

NOVEMBER 2023

The University of Southern Indiana Chamber Choir will host the annual Madrigal Thursday, November 30 through Sunday, December 3 in Carter Hall, located in University Center West on the USI campus. Thursday through Saturday, November 30 through December 30, performances will begin at 7 p.m. with doors opening at 6:30 p.m., and the December 3 matinee performance will begin at 1 p.m. with doors opening at 12:30 p.m.

First performed in 1969 and USI's most enduring musical tradition, the Madrigal Feaste takes guests back to Fifteenth Century Ireland as the Choir entertains with selections of old English madrigals, Irish traditional folk songs and carols, as well as stirring choral selections for the holiday season. Performances combine vocal and instrumental music, dancing, drama, elegant Renaissance garb and fine dining.

This year's menu will include salad, soup of beef and barley, herb baked chicken and vegetables and bread pudding with rum sauce.

Tickets are $36 for USI students, seniors (60+) and children (K-12) and $42 for adults. To purchase tickets, visit www.USI.edu/madrigals or call 812-461-5237.

For more information, contact Dan Craig, Associate Professor of Music, at 812-464-1736.

USI Theatre To Present 'Exit, Pursued by a Bear'

NOVEMBER 2023

University of Southern Indiana Theatre continues its 2023-24 season with Exit, Pursued by a Bear, a revenge comedy by Lauren Gunderson, directed by Joshua Robinson, Assistant Professor of Musical Theatre in the Philip H. Hagemann Performing Arts Department. Performances will run from Thursday, November 16 through Sunday, November 19 in the USI Performance Center.

Exit, Pursued by a Bear shows revenge is not only sweet, but hungry. Nan, a simple woman, has had enough. Enough of her rural life. Enough of her crushed dreams. But most importantly, she has had absolutely enough of her husband Kyle. Domestic bliss turns to domestic abuse, and now Nan is walking away. But not before giving Kyle one last glimpse at just how bad it's been. With the help of her best friend Simon, and a stripper turned friend by chance, Sweetheart, Nan intends to make sure Kyle knows just exactly how much trouble he's really in. And just how far she'll go to even the score.

Billed as a "dark revenge comedy," the production balances the serious with the absurd. Gunderson's story of abuse and escape is all too real for those survivors of domestic abuse. While extreme, Exit, Pursued by a Bear shows that there are creative ways to find your voice and a path to a better life. By placing her abuser in a position to be forced to watch his sins be recounted, Nan gets a chance to extract a bit of catharsis mixed with revenge.

Director Robinson will be joined by a design team including Paul Weimer, Associate Professor and Chair of Theatre, as Scenic Designer; Shan Jensen, Professor of Theatre, as Costume Designer; Brandon Bagwell, Assistant Professor of Theatre, as Lighting Designer; Andy Hammond, Theatre Technical Coordinator, as Technical Director; as well as students, Grey Miller as Stage Manager and Mel Hanebutt as Sound Designer.

The cast of Exit, Pursued by a Bear includes USI students Chloe Kummer as Nan, Gavin Carter as Kyle, LillyBea Ireland as Sweetheart and Leo Rasche as Simon. Joining the stage crew will be Ian Palomino and Korbyn Taylor as Assistant Stage Managers.

USI Theatre will be using reserved seating, and ticket buyers can choose their own seats when purchasing online at <https://usitheatre.universitytickets.com/> or by calling the box office at (812) 465-7110. Tickets are $2 for USI students, $10 for USI employees, $4 for non-USI students (student ID required), $10 seniors (60+) and $12 for adults. Tickets are free to USI students with ID one hour before each performance begins based on availability. Shows begin at 7 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 2 p.m. for the Sunday matinee.

USI Board Of Trustees Approves New BFA In Art Degree

NOVEMBER 2023

At its regular meeting on Thursday, November 2, the University of Southern Indiana Board of Trustees approved a new Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) in Art degree within the USI College of Liberal Arts.

The Art and Design Department, within the USI College of Liberal Arts, will offer the BFA in Art featuring concentrations in graphic design, illustration, interactive media design, photography and studio art, providing students with both in-depth artistic exploration and a broad understanding of the discipline.

According to data from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the concentrations within the degree are anticipated to experience employment growth rates between 4% and 8% over the next decade. This program is particularly suited for aspiring art directors, special effects artists, interior designers, graphic designers and craft/fine artists.

The BFA in Art degree will next be reviewed by the Indiana Commission for Higher Education. It is scheduled to begin instruction in Fall 2024.

In other business, the Trustees approved the conferral of degrees to candidates for 2023 Fall Commencement Exercises and approved two honorary degree recipients. Tim Mahoney, Instructor Emeritus of Economics, will receive an honorary Doctor of Business degree, and Marjorie Labhart, Instructor Emerita of Mathematics, will receive an honorary Doctor of Mathematics degree.

Mahoney will be recognized for his unwavering dedication to teaching and advising and his continuous service to the University. Labhart will be recognized for her dedication and expertise in the field of mathematics and her long-standing support of USI.

The Board also heard reports on student financial assistance and campus construction projects.

UE Women's Basketball Adds Four On National Signing Day

NOVEMBER 2023

EVANSVILLE – The University of Evansville women's basketball program has announced the signing of four new players for the 2024-25 season on National Signing Day.

The Purple Aces welcome players from across the Midwest as part of their 2024 class. UE's latest group of signees includes two point guards and two shooting guards from Indiana, Illinois, and Kentucky.

"We hit a home run with this recruiting class!" says Head Coach Robyn Scherr-Wells. "This group compliments our current freshmen class and helps us ensure we are building the right way for the future. These four players are all very skilled guards who can shoot, score at the rim, and play in our press and up-tempo offense. They all share qualities of being intense competitors, being in great shape, being high character individuals, and being excellent students."

The Aces first player to verbally commit in the spring was 5'10" shooting guard Kylee Norkus. "Kylee has a non-stop motor and will be a great asset in our press and transition offense," says Scherr-Wells. "When Kylee committed to UE in the spring, I was already so excited about what she would bring to our program. And then I watched her game get better and better over the summer.

"She does the obvious things well like scoring in transition and getting to the rim and making shots, but it's all the little things that I get excited about. Her court vision and her ability to find her teammates grew so much in the past year. Her ability to rebound defensively and then lead the break fits perfectly for what we do. Her competitive drive and work ethic are phenomenal. She has gained great experience playing on the EYBL circuit and in a very competitive high school conference. Kylee will make an immediate impact at the wing for us!"

Norkus comes to Evansville from Neuqua Valley High School in Naperville Ill. Over her past three as a starter for the Wildcats, Norkus has been named All-Conference and All-Area in back-to-back years. She was also named to the IBCA All-State team last winter for her help in leading Neuqua Valley to a Regional Championship. Last season, Norkus averaged 16 points, seven rebounds, five steals, and four assists per game.

"I chose UE because of the phenomenal coaching staff to help me continue to grow and develop to my fullest potential athletically," says Norkus. "Evansville's community is extremely welcoming and supportive of their student-athletes. I'm looking forward to adding my contributions on and off the court for UE. I'm ecstatic to be an ACE!"

UE welcomes a local recruit to its 2024 class in point guard Avery Kelley. Playing just down the street at Reitz Memorial High School, Kelley is staying home following three successful seasons with the Tigers. "The first time I saw Avery play as a sophomore at Memorial, I knew she was a player we needed to keep home at UE," says Scherr-Wells. "The pace and tenacity at which she played as a young high schooler stood out to me. Avery has toughness and grit to go along with skill."

"She shoots the ball really well and has a good feel for how to create opportunities for her teammates as a point guard. She is a gym rat and comes from a family of athletes. She will set the tone of what it looks like to put the time into the gym. I am so excited she has chosen to stay home in Evansville!"

Along with playing basketball, Kelley is a multisport athlete having spent two years on the Tiger's softball team and one year on the track team. Over the past three years on the court, Kelley has been named an Indiana Jr. All-Star, a First Team selection for both All-Conference and All-Region and an All-State honorable mention. Last season, Kelley averaged 15 points per game with 4 assists, 5 rebounds, and 2 steals. Kelley comes from a family with a strong collegiate athletic background as both her parents' played basketball at Murray State in the late 1990s.

"I chose to play for UE because of the people," says Kelley. "The coaching staff and players all have enthusiastic personalities and a love for the game. I know I'm going to a great school with the ability to teach me new skills on and off the court."

"Being able to have my friends and family come to all my games and support me is another great factor. I'm super excited to be able to wear Evansville on my chest and play for the team I grew up watching and wanting to be part of!"

Evansville's third signee comes from the Bluegrass State in guard Logan Palmer. Palmer hails from Union, Ky. where she has been a four-year starter at Randall K. Cooper High School. "We had the opportunity to watch Logan grow as a player over 2 full years of recruitment," says Scherr-Wells. "It has been a joy to see her game improve and her confidence in herself grow."

"She is such a good athlete and watching her go from being a forward as a young player in high school to developing into her college position as a wing with her AAU team over the last year has been really fun. Her shooting range has grown so much and has made her a threat from all spots on the floor. She is just scratching the surface of what she can be as a basketball player. I think Logan was really underrated in the recruiting process and we are pumped that she has chosen to be an Ace!"

Last season, Palmer averaged nine points, three rebounds, 45% shooting from the floor, and 80.5% shooting from the free throw line. Palmer helped the Jaguars make a run to the Kentucky State Tournament Final Four in 2023 where they fell at Rupp Arena to Mercy High School. Along with making the Final Four in 2023, Palmer was a consistent starter in back-to-back region titles for Cooper where she was named to the District All-Tournament Team and an All-State Honorable Mention.

"I chose UE because it felt like family," says Palmer. "The coaching staff is backed up by an amazing team of loving girls who all have the same goal. Basketball is more than just a sport and UE displays just that."

"I truly believe UE will push, stretch, and mold me into the best version of myself on and off the court. I'm so excited to see all we have in store! Go Aces!!"

The Aces' final 2024 signee on National Signing Day is shooting guard Camryn Runner. Runner will join UE from Hamilton Heights where she is a four-year starter for the Huskies. "The more I watched Camryn this summer, the more I fell in love with her game," says Scherr-Wells. "Her Indiana Elite team on the Adidas circuit won a ton of games this summer, and she was a very important piece."

"I love that Camryn can play both the point and shooting guard. She plays with so much joy and toughness. She makes everyone around her better. I would sit courtside at her games and I could hear how well she communicates on the court, and the confidence she gives her teammates. She shoots the 3 really well. She is a player who can score when you need her to but also has no problem creating for and feeding her teammates. She is a natural leader and I cannot wait to see the impact she will have on our campus!"

Runner is a three-time All-State, All-Sectional, and All-Conference honoree as the Huskies have made three runs to regionals in class 3A. After three years, Runner is already a 1,000-point scorer having averaged almost 19 points a game while being 5th in the state in free throws with 157. Runner is also active on the club basketball circuit with Indiana Flight, a team that was a National Runner Up in the Adidas circuit over the summer. Along with playing basketball, Runner spends time on the Huskies golf and track and field teams.

"I chose UE because of the welcoming environment I experienced on my visit," says Runner. "I could immediately tell the coaching staff and university had nothing but the best intentions for me. Another reason why I chose UE would be the education that I will receive for the next 4 years to set me up for my future career."

UE's Phillip, Hernandez Earn Postseason All-MVC Honors

NOVEMBER 2023

ST LOUIS — Two members of the University of Evansville men's soccer team have been honored with postseason awards by Missouri Valley Conference Head Coaches.

Senior forward Kai Phillip and freshman midfielder David Hernandez were recognized for their play in the 2023 season for the Purple Aces by the MVC. Leading UE on offense, Phillip earned a spot on the All-Conference First Team after being named to the Second Team only a year ago. Hernandez finished his first season with Evansville as a consistent starter and stalwart for the middle four while being the Aces go-to for corner kicks on the right side.

This season, Phillip led UE in most statistical categories including goals (10), points (21), shots (36), shots on goal (17), and games started (16). At the end of the season, the forward ranked 28th in the nation in goals per game and 3rd in the Missouri Valley Conference, averaging 0.62 goals a game. He also was top of the Valley in goals and points, sitting third behind MVC Player of the Year Dylan Sing and All-Conference First Team selection Charlie Sharp. Phillip was also only one of six players in the Valley to have multiple braces during the season. Phillip scored two goals in a match against both Southern Indiana and Northern Illinois.

Hernandez in his first season with the Purple Aces played in all but one game and started 73% of the time. For the season, the midfielder recorded one goal against UIC and tallied three assists over the course of 15 games. Hernandez was sixth in minutes played for Evansville with 1,000 minutes on the pitch and led all freshmen and newcomers on UE's roster.

USI's Markland, Grafton Bring Home All-OVC Honors

NOVEMBER 2023

EVANSVILLE – University of Southern Indiana Women's Soccer had two Screaming Eagles receive Ohio Valley Conference postseason honors on Wednesday. The league's head coaches and communication directors voted upon the postseason accolades.

It was announced that redshirt freshman goalkeeper Anna Markland (Hoover, Alabama) and sophomore defender Charli Grafton (Sunriver, Oregon) were recognized by the conference for their performances in 2023.

Between the posts, Markland was named the OVC's Goalkeeper of the Year along with being on the All-OVC First Team and All-Newcomer Team. In taking over the reins in goal, Markland started all 19 matches, posting a 1.11 GAA with 68 saves and six clean sheets in the regular season. Her six shutouts and 1.11 GAA ranked second in the OVC, while her saves total was top five. She also had a .782 save percentage. In conference play, Markland had a sub-1.00 GAA, 32 saves, and an OVC-best five shutouts, including three straight between October 5-12. Markland was a three-time OVC Goalkeeper of the Week during the season.

Commanding the defensive unit, Grafton earned All-OVC Second Team accolades. Grafton shifted from a holding midfield position in 2022 to the left centerback spot in 2023, leading an entirely new backline for USI this season. The sophomore helped USI to six shutouts in 2023 with five coming in OVC play. Grafton started every match, playing all but 21 minutes this season. Getting involved offensively, Grafton also tallied an assist in USI's 3-0 win against Lindenwood University on October 8. Grafton was named OVC Defender of the Week twice during the 2023 campaign.

Southern Indiana concluded its 2023 season with a top-four seed and a quarterfinal appearance in the Ohio Valley Conference Women's Soccer Championship Tournament. USI earned its second consecutive OVC tournament berth in the second year of the transition to Division I. The Screaming Eagles seek to continue to build and take another step forward in 2024.
