	Reported: 04/27/2025. On 04-27-2025 officers were dispatched to 1911 S Red Bank Rd in reference to a domestic in progress. The victim called 911 and said she needed officers. The offender could be heard in the background yelling at the victim through the phone. The female stated that she needed officers now and believed she had a concussion. EPD officers arrived on scene and observed a male run into the callers address. A short time later he was placed into custody. He was identified as Martez Lockridge. The female victim said that she and her boyfriend had got into an argument and he began to assault her. He choked her making it hard to breathe and struck her in the head. She was observed to have redness around her right ear and redness on her neck. She complained of pain at the back of her head and stated that she thought she was going to pass out. AMR was called to the scene for medical treatment. A video camera captured a portion of the incident and showed the male pushing the female against her will back into the house from the front porch. While enroute to the jail, Martez resisted officers on two separate occasions. He also threatened to assault the arresting officer. He was transported to the Vanderburgh County Jail on DV with prior conviction, strangulation, intimidation, 2x resisting arrest and confinement.
