Villanueva was initially hysterical and Officers had a difficult time trying obtain a story from her. Villanueva told an Officer she did not want to loose her children. After some time, Officers were able to obtain her story. Villanueva told Officers her husband, Eric Mattingly, returned to the hotel room and got into bed. She said he then kicked her out of the bed to the floor and tried to prevent her from returning to the bed. Villanueva said Mattingly then left the room prior to Officers arriving. Mattingly was located by Officers behind the Hucks gas station, which is across the street from the hotel. Mattingly cooperated with Officers and said Villanueva began to argue with him about not getting her medication. He then said Villanueva came at him and he attempted to get her off of him to avoid an altercation in front of the children. Mattingly said he did kick at Villanueva to get her away from him. Mattingly and Villanueva had consistencies in their respective stories, up until the part about who the aggressor was in the altercation. With the inconsistencies in the stories and no visible signs of injury, a supervisor was contacted and the decision was made to not make an arrest. Both parties agreed to separate for the night and Mattingly got a separate hotel room to stay in, then handed the hotel clerk the key cards to the room Villanueva was staying in.		AKER, B. W.

Reported: 10/26/2025. On 10-26-2025 around 1810 hours officers were dispatched to a disorderly conduct in the 1600 block of Delmar Ave. The caller told Central Dispatch a neighbor attempted to steal their dog and was now threatening their family. An officer arrived and spoke with both parties involved. It was determined that the original caller's dog had got loose and the suspect party had found the dog and posted about it to a lost pets page for Evansville on Facebook to attempt to find the owner. The complainants children tried to get the dog but were unable to show proof, so the suspect party didn't relinquish the dog based on just the children's word. The caller got into a verbal altercation with the suspect party over the dog, with both sides alledging the other threatened to beat the up. A uninvolved witness across the street stated the original caller was the one who made a threat towards the original suspect party. The caller left before they could be given a case number, so the suspect, now victim, party was given a case number for an intimidation report.		REISINGER, L. R.
