Upon arrival, the suspect with a gun had fled, but not prior to the victim getting a picture of the offender's license plate. Another male on scene had visible injuries and initially told officers the subjects in the barber shop had struck him. The other males all denied this, stating the subject with the gun, whom the visibly injured man had called to the scene, had struck wounded man with the gun. There was surveillance video of the incident and it did show both the injured man and the subject with a gun as the aggressors in the incident, but also they did appear to be together against the other occupants of the barber shop. The male with the gun pointed it at several subjects inside the barber shop but directly at the victim more than once.		ADAMS, H. D.
